Hurricane Fades as It Hits Coast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Hurricane Fern ended a series of twisting feints at the Texas coast early today, bustling ashore with drenching rains, lightning and winds barely above hurricane force.

Her stronger sister, Hurricane Edith, raked Honduras with winds to 175 miles per hour.

Thousands evacuated the Galveston area Thursday as Fern dawdled over the Gulf of Mexico some 30 miles offshore.

At 4:10 a.m. the leading edge of the storm swept inland in a sparsely populated area some 25 miles southwest of Freeport and churned over the swamplands of the upper Matagorda Peninsula.

Two tornadoes spawned by the storm uprooted trees and tore shingles from homes at Texas City and lightning from the hurricane touched off fires which destroyed six homes on Galveston Island. Four inches of rain fell at Galveston, flooding some streets and highways.

The Weather Bureau said Fern was weakening as she moved inland, but that wind gusts near the center of the storm could still hit 75 miles per hour, minimum velocity for hurricane force.

Several thousand persons fled Galveston Island but most residents chose to ride out the storm. Eight refugee centers opened at Galveston but five closed when it became apparent they were not needed.

Meanwhile, Fern's sister Edith lashed the Honduran coastline, then lost some punch as she struck the mountains of Honduras with winds of 100 m.p.h. Torrential rains posed the threat of flash flooding.

The National Hurricane Center in Miami said Edith, "an extremely strong hurricane," was likely to cause considerable damage over a small area along the path of its center. No damage reports were immediately available from the remote area.

The center said at 3 a.m. that Edith was about 30 miles inland from the north coast of Honduras and moving west-northwest. While winds diminished somewhat as it crossed land, the storm was expected to strengthen as its center emerged over the Gulf of Honduras and moved on toward Guatemala and southern British Honduras.

The Coast Guard said it could not locate a 58-foot shrimp boat which reported it was in distress 17 miles offshore from Galveston. A 510 foot motor vessel of Panamanian registry, the "Eleanor," foundered off-shore with her engines inoperative. Attempts were made to tow her to port.

Precipitation Possibility for Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Between Hurricane Fern and a new cold front, the chance of precipitation in Arkansas is increasing.

Although Fern is rather erratic and slow moving it should eventually provide moisture in Arkansas. The cold front extended this morning from North Dakota to Nevada and is expected to approach the northern portion of Arkansas by late Saturday.

Because of Fern and the front shower probabilities are expected to increase from very slight today to almost 50-50 by late Saturday.

A cold front that moved into the state Thursday had little effect on temperatures and was dissipating early today.

Showers Creep Into Forecast

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A chance of showers has crept into the forecast for Saturday night's football game here between California and Arkansas.

Otherwise, the National Weather Service predicts mostly cloudy skies with temperatures in the mid 70s. Winds should be easterly at eight to 12 miles an hour.

No Reprisals for Prison Rebellion

By DON WATERS
Associated Press Writer

ATTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Convicts holding 30 hostages in a rebellion over conditions at the Attica State Prison surged from a cellblock in their control today to an adjacent cellblock held by lawmen. The convicts were driven back by tear gas.

The incident came after a night of uneasy calm at the maximum security prison.

Overnight the inmates had obtained a federal court order prohibiting prison officials from taking any "physical reprisals" against them, according to the state corrections commissioner, Russell G. Oswald.

Oswald said the inmates continued to hold the guards captive as well as four civilian shop foremen, trapped by the prisoners Thursday. The rebels were armed with pipes, baseball bats, homemade knives and stored tear gas at the prison.

Assurances from State Corrections Commissioner Russell G. Oswald—who flew from Albany to hear the demands of the rioting prisoners—that "no administrative reprisals" would be taken against the men came at a late afternoon meeting in the littered prison yard.

The convicts also made 15 wide-ranging demands, including more religious and political freedom, an end to censorship of newspapers and magazines and improved parole and rehabilitation practices. They also asked pay at the state's minimum wage of $1.85 an hour "for work in prison shops."

The prisoners were surrounded by 500 helmeted, gas-masked state troopers and by sheriff's deputies from five surrounding counties who were armed with shotguns, submachine guns and teargas grenade launchers.

Prison officials were unable to offer a cause for the sudden explosion of violence just before midmorning visiting hours, except to report a Wednesday night incident in which a guard

Nixon Stakes Future in Politics on New Policies, Not the Old

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has staked out a position on the political offensive, heading toward the 1972 campaign as champion of new economic and foreign policies instead of defending the old.

That puts him in a position to capitalize on the advantages of incumbency while avoiding the chief disadvantage. For there is almost invariably political glamor in campaigning for a new venture, and little or none in praising the past.

Nixon's ventures — his new economic program, urged upon Congress Thursday with an appeal for bipartisan support, and his coming trip to mainland China—have helped push his Gallup Poll rating past that of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the leading Democratic contender for the presidency in 1972.

The latest figures: Nixon 42 per cent, Muskie 36; a shift from the early-summer sampling in which Muskie had a two-point edge.

But the President has some political ground to cover yet; he was elected in the first place with just over 43 per cent of the vote.

If Nixon's economic prescription and his mission to Peking don't work out, the early political benefits almost certainly will change to election-time liabilities.

In the campaign now taking shape, Nixon's intention, clearly, is to wind down the Vietnam war to the point that it will not

Six Charged in Pontiac Bus Bombings

By STEPHEN H. WILDSTROM
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Six men whose activities were reported by an FBI informer who infiltrated the Ku Klux Klan have been charged with conspiracy to thwart court-ordered school integration in Pontiac, Mich., by bombing school buses.

One of those arrested on an FBI complaint Thursday was Robert E. Miles, 46, of Howell, Mich., who recently announced he had stepped down as Grand Dragon of the Klan in Michigan. Pontiac Police Chief William Hanger said the other five men were known Klansmen.

The six were to be arraigned here today before U.S. Magistrate Paul Komives.

The conspiracy charge carries a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

The arrests of the six men followed by 10 days the dynamiting of school buses in the Pontiac school board parking lot. Ten vehicles were destroyed and two were damaged.

The buses were to have been used in transporting some of the 9,000 pupils in an in-

Dee Coffee, Commander of Leslie Huddleston Post 12 of The American Legion announced today that on Tuesday, September 21, at 7 p.m., Post 12 will honor veterans of the Viet Nam Conflict with a Pot Luck Dinner in the Red River Vocational Technical School Auditorium.

Featured speaker for this occasion will be Lt. Governor Bob Riley who will speak on a subject of special interest to all veterans, especially veterans of Viet Nam.

Commander Coffee stated that, "Dr. Bob Riley, Professor of Political Science at Ouachita Baptist University, is a native Arkansawyer, from pioneer stock whose presence in Arkansas goes back to 1819. Educated in the rural schools, he left Little Rock Central High School in his junior year to join the U.S. Marines in December, 1941. Overseas two years in the Pacific he was wounded in action at Guam in July, 1944, as a Rifle Squad Leader. After a year of hospitals and rehabilitation, he returned to Arkansas and it's University, from which he earned Bachelor's, Master's, and Doctor's degrees."

"While a freshman in College, he was elected to the Arkansas House of Representatives in which he served two terms. As a freshman legislator, he chaired a major committee, Veterans Affairs. He sponsored legislation for the 'old State House,' and War Memorial Stadium."

"He came to Ouachita in 1957 to form the Department of Political Science and he has been its Chairman and Chairman of the Division of Social Sciences. He has served Arkadelphia on its City Council and as its Mayor."

"In 1963, he was chosen to be the recipient of the National Merit Award of the Blinded Veterans Association."

"Dr. Riley has served as a Consultant to many groups including the Poverty Program and the College Preparation Program."

Charges Her Son's Rights Violated

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Mrs. Lula Huckaby of Beebe filed suit Thursday in U.S. District Court at Little Rock alleging that her son's constitutional rights were violated by school officials at Beebe who refused to let the boy attend classes because of the length of his hair.

The suit was filed on behalf of Jerome Huckaby, who was a ninth-grader at Beebe High School.

The suit alleges that Supt. Bill Hefner, Principal Darrell Hall and the members of the Beebe School Board violated the youngster's rights under the First and 14th Amendments.

The suit said the policy on hair length at the school was in violation of the rights of freedom of speech and expression and equal protection under the law, and asked that young Huckaby be allowed back in school without penalty.

Nixon Calls in Labor for Freeze Views

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon summoned to the White House today some of the bitterest critics of his economic program to hear organized labor's views on what should follow the wage-price freeze.

"He'll be listening," Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson told United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock of Nixon's attitude toward this first meeting with union chiefs since the freeze began Aug. 15.

"I don't think they are going to call us in and say 'you write the ticket,'" Woodcock said in an interview.

But he added that Labor Department officials told him the administration hasn't closed its mind to one of labor's biggest demands—retroactive pay for all negotiated wage hikes held up by the freeze, and all scheduled wage hikes due later under current contracts.

"The whole question is open," Woodcock said after the meeting with Hodgson and Asst. Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery. The Auto Workers have threatened to cancel contracts covering some 600,000 workers with major auto firms if they don't get pay hikes due in November and December.

The issue of recovering frozen pay hikes is also vital to several other leaders invited by Nixon — United steelworkers President I. W. Abel who won 30 per cent in wage hikes over three years for some 350,000 steelworkers last month, and President Joseph A. Beirne of the Communications Workers whose union approved a similar wage hike for 500,000 telephone workers just before the freeze.

Also meeting with Nixon will be AFL-CIO President George

U.S. Admits Troops Are Supporting Drive by Vietnamese in DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command acknowledged today that as many as 1,500 to 2,000 American troops are directly supporting a South Vietnamese drive south of the demilitarized zone near Laos.

Making the first official comment on the U.S. role, Maj. Richard Gardner said, "These are personnel involved in the air and artillery support of the operation."

The Command also reported that U.S. fighter-bombers attacked two antiaircraft sites inside North Vietnam today when they fired on an unarmed reconnaissance plane the jets were escorting. The reconnaissance mission apparently was in support of the South Vietnamese offensive, since intelligence gathered on such flights is generally turned over to the South Vietnamese.

A U.S. military spokesman said results of the bomb strikes were not known, and he added that neither the two Phantom jets nor the reconnaissance jet were hit by the antiaircraft batteries, located about two miles north of the DMZ. He said they were "protective reaction" strikes and "an inherent right of self defense."

On U.S. involvement in the South Vietnamese operation, Gardner said about half of the American personnel are providing artillery support "and that number should remain fairly stable. The number involved in air support could fluctuate by a couple of hundred from day to day depending upon requests for air support from the Republic of Vietnam armed forces."

Gardner said the number of troops involved in air support was based only on a count of helicopters and tactical fighter-bombers. They do not include B52 bombers that have been flying between 15 and 25 combat strikes a day.

Pressure on President to Tell What He Plans to Replace the Freeze

By EDMOND LEBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pressure on President Nixon to tell Congress quickly what measures he plans to replace the wage-price freeze expiring Nov. 13 appears mounting after his personal appearance before the lawmakers.

Nixon told Congress in joint session Thursday the full-fledged freeze will not be extended beyond the scheduled 90 days and that broad consultations with representatives of various segments of the economy will help shape succeeding policies. He appealed for bipartisan support of his new economic policy.

Reception was mixed. Some Democrats applauded the announcement the freeze would not be extended, but others said Nixon made at least a tactical error in closing this option before alternate plans were shaped. Key Democrats also repeated their intention to modify his tax program and provide more individual relief.

Republicans generally seconded Nixon's plea for a bipartisan approach to the country's economic problems.

Members of the House Ways and Means Committee, questioning Budget Director George P. Shultz, before and after Nixon's speech, pressed for some indication of post-freeze plans.

"I think in the long run the program for wages, prices and rents has to have its major thrust in voluntary acceptance ... but a little bit of sanction in the background is necessary," Shultz replied. "I am sure there will be some sanctions."

Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said he thinks Nixon made a mistake by promising the freeze would

U.S., Japan Trying to Settle Rift

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Japan planned another effort today to heal a deep rift over monetary, trade and China policies that have troubled relations between the two economic giants of the non-Communist world.

Neither side appeared ready for a compromise solution as today's second of two sessions began. The communiqué to be issued at the meeting's end was expected to reflect an impasse.

Senior State Department officials said Secretary of State William P. Rogers had expressed disappointment Thursday over the slow pace of Japan's liberalization of trade and investment policies.

Spokesmen for the Japanese delegation headed by Foreign Minister Takeo Fukuda said Japan was unyielding in its stand that United States should put its domestic house in order before calling on Japan to revalue its yen, or before asking other countries to pay the price for American inflation.

It was agreed at the Thursday session that questions on revaluation of the yen should be deferred until next week when a meeting of the 10 richest industrial powers in the West takes place in London.

Rogers called for up-valuing the exchange rate of the yen to bring the Japanese balance of payments into equilibrium.

But Fukuda said there was no difficulty with Japan's balance of payments. He advised the United States to take stronger measures to fight inflation.

"It may be that in certain unavoidable situations, having utilized all domestic measures, it becomes necessary to make international adjustments," he told Rogers. "In such cases, Japan is ready to cooperate actively with other major powers to solve the problem at hand through consultations."

He said the success of these consultations depends on the "essential condition that all countries concerned should share the burden in the spirit of true international cooperation." This was viewed by U.S. officials as a call for the United States to devalue the dollar by increasing the price of gold. President Nixon has turned down that remedy.

The Japanese also called for the United States to say when it will eliminate the 10-per-cent surcharge on imports. No definite answer was given, but United States gave assurance that the surcharge will be removed when the dollar is finally realigned against other currencies.

Rogers said the realignment would be the "critical first step towards restoring international monetary stability."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon summoned to the White House today some of the bitterest critics of his economic program to hear organized labor's views on what should follow the wage-price freeze.

The labor leaders invited to the President's conference include President George Meany of the AFL-CIO, President Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers and leaders of the Communications Workers and United Steelworkers.

Northern Part of State a Growth Area

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Thursday that he would designate the Northwest Arkansas region as one of the state's "growth" areas under the federal Highway Safety Act.

The designation would qualify the region for federal funds for highway development.

Bumpers said the law permits the nation's governors to designate three such growth areas in each state. He has not designated the other two in Arkansas.

The governor said $50 million would be available nationwide under the program, but that he did not know what Arkansas' share would be.

Ken Riley, director of the Northwest Arkansas Regional Planning Commission, said the officials hoped that one result of the growth designation would be to solve traffic problems on congested U.S. 71 where it runs through the four cities represented at the meeting.

Dividends Are Forced Down by Freeze

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council claims success in forcing down dividend increases by a handful of companies but has heaped official government criticism on the one reported holdout, the Florida Telephone Corp.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally said Thursday the Okla. Fla., utility out of four companies, was the only one that refused to reduce declared dividend increases in line with President Nixon's 90-day wage-price freeze.

"At a time when each of us is expected to support the President's efforts in dealing with the present economic situation, it is disheartening to experience this demonstration of recalcitrance, particularly from a public utility," Connally said.

"The apparent reluctance of the Florida Telephone Corp. to support the President's request is in sharp contrast to the widespread cooperation which we have received from all of the people."

When officials of the utility appeared before the council earlier in the week, they said they supported Nixon's program but doubted if the firm could legally roll back a declared dividend increase.

The utility's dividend, announced Aug. 25, will increase from 13 to 14 cents per share, effective Dec. 20. "We acted in good faith," the firm's president told newsmen earlier in the week.

The council called in six companies altogether, but acknowledged Thursday that two, National Propane Corp., New Hyde Park, N.Y., and Volume Shoe Corp., Topeka, Kan., did not violate the guidelines to hold down dividends.

The other three agreed to roll back their next quarterly dividends to offset the increased dividends, the council said.

They are Briggs and Stratton Corp., Wauwatosa, Wis.; Martin Yale Industries Inc., Chicago, Ill.; and Sela Corp. of America, Dresher, Pa.

The wage-price freeze does not cover dividends, which are exempt under the law Nixon used.

Nevertheless, Nixon asked companies to voluntarily hold the line on dividends when he announced his new economic program Aug. 15.

U.S. Planes Launch 15 More Strikes

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers launched 15 more strikes south of the demilitarized zone today in support of a South Vietnamese drive, but for the fifth straight day no major contact with the enemy was reported.

One South Vietnamese base was shelled, but the 15-round mortar barrage against Khe Gio base camp caused no casualties, the South Vietnam command reported.

About 13,500 South Vietnamese troops, supported by U.S. artillery and helicopters, are now committed to the operation which is aimed at disrupting North Vietnamese troop and supply movements. The westernmost point of the drive is six miles from the Laotian border and the northern edge is six miles south of the DMZ.

Hanoi's forces, estimated two weeks ago at up to 18,000 in the northwestern sector of South Vietnam, are now believed to number between 6,000 and 10,000 men.

Allied intelligence reports indicated the North Vietnamese still were pulling back into Laos and North Vietnam in the face of incessant U.S. aerial pounding and allied artillery bombardments.

The B52 stratofortresses dropped 450 tons of bombs today on suspected North Vietnamese troop locations, bunkers, storage sites and infiltration routes.

Only small patrol actions were reported elsewhere across Vietnam.

British Hope to Soothe Egyptians

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Britain's foreign secretary flies to Cairo on Sunday hoping to convince Egyptian leaders they can safely lessen their reliance on Soviet power because they have friends in the West.

Sir Alec Douglas-Home also will attempt to discover if President Anwar Sadat's regime would consider entering direct peace talks with Israel.

The minister's three-day visit will formalize London's reconciliation with Cairo since the Suez incident 15 years ago when British, French and Israeli forces invaded Egypt. Aside from attending the funeral of President Gamal Abdel Nasser, no senior British minister has been to Cairo since the early 1960s.

In talks with Sadat, Prime Minister Mahmud Fawzi and Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad, Douglas-Home will be careful to avoid upsetting current U.S. efforts for an interim Egyptian-Israeli pact to reopen the Suez Canal.

This means the British minister will offer no rival, or parallel, proposal. Nor will he even suggest, according to aides, the revival of Big Four talks on the Middle East dispute.

Official sources say Douglas-Home mainly wants to open a full scale discussion on Cairo's ever-increasing reliance on Soviet military, political and economic support.

Douglas-Home has said publicly that the presence of up to 20,000 Soviet technicians and military advisers in Egypt has injected a dangerous element in the already explosive Mideast situation.

He is likely to argue that the Sadat government will find it hard to get the Russians to pull out even if military tension in the region were to ease.

The British official knows Sadat shares this view to a degree. In exchanges with some friendly leaders, Sadat has acknowledged he would like to cut back the number of Soviet personnel in his country. And some of his ministers privately have assured Western authorities they too would like to reduce Cairo's dependence on the Soviets provided the over-all Mideast situation stabilized.

Douglas-Home's aim is to persuade the Egyptian leaders that they can count on some key Western countries like Britain and France for some of the help they now get from Moscow. This does not mean military help so much as political and economic backing.

Fears Voting Age Dip May Be Harmful

By H. JOSEF HEBERT
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Extension of the vote to 18 year olds creates a new type of independent-active but nonpartisan—and may contribute to the erosion of political parties, a political scientist says.

Louis M. Seagull of the University of Pennsylvania said that because of higher education levels and increased political awareness among those in the 18 to 20 age group, past statistics of political apathy among the young cannot be used in future evaluations.

Seagull's remarks were in a paper submitted Thursday to the annual convention of the American Political Science Association.

Political scientists attending the meeting said that in 1972 there will be more than 25 million voters under the age of 25 who will be eligible to vote for president for the first time.

"The recently enfranchised electorate is likely to develop and assert the consciousness and behavior of a political generation," Seagull said. "This is in response to twin factors of the Vietnam war's impact on their age group and their susceptibility to peer influences."

"While age, rather than education, may be an important variable for the voter participation of the population at large, there is no doubt but that within the youngest group of voters, education makes the crucial difference."

Seagull said young voters are basically independent and may contribute to "the decline of salience of party identification for the future electorate."

He cited a May 1970 Gallup poll of political preference by college students which found 30 per cent Democrats, 18 per cent Republicans and 52 per cent independents.

"The type of 'independence' represented by contemporary college youth is not anticipated in past survey research where the 'independent voter' was an uninvolved and a political creature," Seagull said.

"An analysis of the college educated segment of the youth points to the emergence of an independent, nonpartisan, but highly interested majority in the future electorate."

Seagull also said a possible cleavage could evolve between college educated and noncollege educated young voters.

"The potential of differing political behavior, and, indeed, conflict between these two very different segments within the same age group is considerable," he said.

Stockholders of Track Indicted

CHICAGO (AP) — The largest shareholder in a downtown land trust which owns the Cahokia Downs Race Track has been identified by the Chicago Tribune as a national corporation indicted last February with two of Detroit's reputed top organized crime leaders.

In a copyright story in today's later editions, the paper said stock in the land trust is owned by Emprise Corp. and its holding company, High Park Corp., both of Eggertsville, N.Y.

A group of defendants, including Emprise and the alleged Detroit organized crime leaders, were indicted in February by a Los Angeles federal grand jury on charges that they concealed their ownership of the Frontier Hotel in Las Vegas in 1966 and 1967, the Tribune said.

The two Detroit men were identified by the Tribune as Anthony J. Zerilli, 42, president of Hazel Park Racing Association of Detroit, and Michael S. Polizzi, 46, president of Valley Die Cast Association, also in Detroit.

The paper said both men have been named by a Senate Government Operations subcommittee on organized crime as captains in the Detroit family of La Cosa Nostra.

The Los Angeles indictment against Emprise and the two reputed Mafia leaders was dismissed Wednesday on a technicality, but the Tribune said, federal prosecutors will move to file new charges.

Arrested with Miles at his farm was Edmund Reimer, also of Howell.

Raymond Quick Jr., 24, of Lake Orion was arrested in Pontiac.

Wallace E. Fruit, 29, and Dennis C. Ramsey, 24, of Drayton Plains, and Alexander J. Distel Jr., 28, of Pontiac were picked up by the FBI in a car at the southern end of the Mackinac Bridge, between Michigan's Upper and Lower peninsulas.

Lending Law Remains Inadequate

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While the truth-in-lending law has done much to improve our understanding of interest rates, one is justified in wondering if the matter ever can be reduced to simple facts for simple people.

The law requires that a lender state his rates in terms of simple annual interest. And while compliance is probably better than 98 per cent, confusion still may be nearly as high among some people.

The problem remains because of convenience, tradition and state laws that encourage use of other computing methods, and because there are obvious advantages for a company that can make its rates appear lowest.

The law doesn't prevent a lender from stating terms in other ways. And so, while the simple annual interest rate is indeed stated clearly, it is often not the one publicized.

You have situations, therefore, in which a quoted rate of 7 per cent for 24 months becomes 12.91 per cent using the "add-on" method or 13.33 per cent on a "discount" loan. And a rate of 1.5 per cent a month becomes 18 per cent a year on a revolving credit account.

Almost always when interest is stated in terms other than the simple rate it means a costlier loan for the borrower. But only life insurance, mortgage and some bank loans are regularly stated that way.

In the add-on method the borrower receives the full amount of the loan and the interest is then added on. A one-year, $2,000 loan at 8 per cent would mean a total of $2,160 to be repaid in 12 monthly installments of $180 each. That's 14.45 per cent a year.

The reason the add-on works out to a higher rate than would first appear is that the borrower has the full amount for only one month. Each month he repays some of the loan, yet he is charged as if he had the sum for 12 months.

Discount loans are usually even higher. Generally speaking, a loan of this type held for a year works out to double the stated rate. Again, the borrower seldom has the entire amount for the entire period of the loan.

The same loan referred to earlier would cost him about 15.68 per cent in terms of simple annual interest. And if he paid back the loan in two years or 24 equal payments his rate would be 17.33 per cent.

Interest on the unpaid balance, commonly used by credit unions, some consumer finance companies and most department stores, differs from most rates in being quoted by the month instead of the year.

The charge is calculated anew each month on whatever amount remains unpaid in the account. There's no trick in converting to the annual rate—just multiply by 12, making a 1.5 per cent monthly rate 18 per cent a year.

Legal Residence Determines

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Supt. J. K. Williams of the Pulaski County School District said Thursday that only the legal residence of pupils' parents would be used to determine which school a pupil attends.

Williams made the statement after about 40 students had been sent home from McClellan High School and were told to enroll in the Wilbur D. Mills High School.

The students, who had been assigned to Mills High School, had either moved in with relatives or guardians in the McClellan district or had rented apartments in order to attend school at McClellan.

About 240 students who attended McClellan last year were assigned to Mills this year under a new zoning plan.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MR. and MRS. JACK W. FOUNTAIN

The marriage of Miss Kathie Virginia Stewart and Jack Woodson Fountain was solemnized at 7 p.m. August 6 in the First Church of the Nazarene in Hot Springs. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John Ed Stewart of Crystal Springs and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hutton Fountain of Hope.

The Rev. Dean Galloway performed the double-ring ceremony before an arch entwined with southern smilax. Scattered arrangements of yellow and white gladiolus, chrysanthemums, Majestic daisies and Fuji chrysanthemums decorated the church.

A double white prayer bench was used in the ceremony. Music was presented by Mrs. Dean Galloway, organist, and Mrs. Rachael Wilson, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an Empire style dress of white brocaded taffeta. The chapel-length dress had a silk chiffon overskirt, and the Chantilly lace bodice was beaded with seed pearls. The full chiffon sleeves had Chantilly lace cuffs fastened with tiny covered buttons. Pleated taffeta with ruffled Chantilly lace and chiffon formed the train. The three-tiered veil of illusion was held in place by a coronet of white beaded lilies of the valley. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of Vanda orchids and stephanotis centered with a yellow throatied Cattelya orchid. Her only jewelry was a diamond drop, a gift of the groom.

The bride designed her gown, and it was made by Mrs. Owen Phillips of Hot Springs. The bride's maid of honor was Miss Lynn Hall, and bridesmaids were Miss Kathy Fisher and Miss Pamela Whitefield. All were attired in yellow organza fashioned with an A-line bodice trimmed with lace. They carried colonial bouquets of white pom-pom mums centered with a large yellow chrysanthemum.

Miss Melaney Hawthorne was the flower girl, and Master Dennis Meeks was the ring bearer.

Danny Key of Houston served the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Leonard Dawson and Terry Williams, both of Malvern. Ushers were Howell Hall and John Stewart, Jr., brother of the bride.

Mrs. Stewart chose aqua chiffon with matching accessories for her daughter's wedding, and Mrs. Fountain wore summer pink silk with matching accessories. Each wore an orchid corsage.

A reception followed in the fellowship hall of the church. After a wedding trip to New Orleans, the newlyweds are at home in Arkadelphia.

Mrs. Fountain attended Henderson State College, the University of Arkansas in Little Rock, and is currently employed by J. C. Penney Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edgar Woodson, Sr. of Prescott and the late Mr. Woodson and of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Robert Fountain of Norfolk. He is attending Henderson State College, where he is a business administration and marketing major, and he is employed by Safeway Store.

Rehearsal Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hutton Fountain entertained the wedding couple and members of their wedding party with a dinner at 7 p.m. August 5 in the Blue Room of the Downtowner in Hot Springs. Yellow candles and a brass urn filled with assorted daisies decorated the U-shaped table where 25 guests were served.

The honorees presented gifts to their attendants at this time, and the Stewarts and the Fountains exchanged a gift of memory to mark the occasion.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's 670 commercial television stations start their fall season this weekend operating under the new prime time rule.

The Federal Communications Commission has ordered a return of three-and-one-half hours weekly evening time to stations in the top 50 markets for local programming.

The idea is to encourage local production of shows and, hopefully, to improve quality and over-all creativity.

However, what we are likely to be seeing and in even greater quantities than ever are reruns of bygone series like "Tarzan" and "I Dream of Jeannie," plus some syndicated programs spun out of network series like "Hee Haw" and "To Tell the Truth."

Most popular purchases at the moment are some programs canceled by the networks last season but continuing on with new syndicated programs. The current sales champ appears to be "The Lawrence Welk Show" which has been sold, at last count, to 217 stations—more than the "champagne music maker" had during his ABC years. "Wild Kingdom," which comes from NBC equipped with a built-in sponsor, and "Lassie," with half of its commercial time filled, as always by a soup commercial, are close seconds.

Smaller stations outside the 50 major markets are not affected directly by the rule but have their problems just the same since the networks have cut their service by more than three hours a week. They are mostly unable to afford local programming requiring trained personnel and expensive equipment and as a consequence are dipping even deeper than usual into the big reservoir of syndicated reruns, some as many as 10 years old.

Most stations and the networks have chosen to relinquish the half hour between 7:30 and 8 p.m. most nights, although each network has done some shuffling around, mostly to preserve intact their strongest lineups of programs.

Meanwhile, the season kickoff comes in with the televised finals of the Miss America Pageant Saturday night. That at least arrives with a new cast but at the same time and in the usual place: 10 p.m. (EDT) on NBC.

TICKLING HUSBAND: MALE CHAUVINIST?

Dear Helen: I'm writing four letters to you, all in separate envelopes, so you'll know this is serious! And I'm desperate.

Please tell me, is there some kind of medical cure for ticklishness? My problem is that my husband knows my weakness, and his greatest joy is getting me down and tickling my feet, my ribs; even when he runs his finger up my back, I almost go into hysterics. Once or twice he even tied me up and tickled me.

We know it's harmless, 'cause he quits before I go nuts, but when you know you're going to be pinned down and tickled, well sometimes I feel like I could die laughing. I can't make him stop because he's very playful. So I have to outgrow being ticklish.—HELP!!!

Dear Help: Correction: Your husband should outgrow being a sadist. What he calls "playful" becomes cruel and darn near inhuman when he ties you down to gratify his "boyish urge."

If you can't get this across with words, then I'd suggest you take a course in judo and do some

"playing" on your own!—H.

Dear Helen:

That young wife who wants to take over the "mothering" of three stepsons is CRAZY! Tell her to leave well enough alone. If the real mother wants to keep them—no matter how badly she brings them up—let her!

My husband wants his son back with him because he says the natural mother (his ex-wife) is unfit. I'll leave him if this happens!

When the kid is here on weekends, I stop enjoying myself. I like to run around in the nude, have a drink or two or three, relax with my own kind of friends. A child of 10 ruins everything. He's always asking questions or taking his dad off on childish trips or games. I can barely stand his being here a whole day every two weeks, so how could I take it constantly?

Is there any way a new wife can prevent her husband from making a terrible mistake?—THIS IS TOO MUCH

Dear TITM:

I think he already made it—when he married you!—H.

Dear Helen:

The more I observe, read and experience, the more I realize that this whole "family" system is idiotic. Man and woman were never meant to LIVE together. Love together—yes, but putting them in the same house, to be compatible forever after, is like expecting perfume when you mix chlorine and water.

To remain in love, two people should live separately and only visit each other when both are in the mood. A male and female face it have nothing in common to discuss. Their ideas, ideals, goals, and ways of achieving them, are light years apart. They react differently to the same stimuli, and neither can understand the other's moods or thoughts.

Man never understood woman, and though woman THINKS she sees through man, she's totally off base.

Actually, persons of the same sex get along much better sharing an apartment. I don't mean homosexually, but just as working arrangement. I'm all for "long-distance marriages," and if there are children, so much the better. A visiting parent is on his good behavior, therefore a better parent, and there will be no conflict in discipline as often happens in the two-parent home. What do you think, Helen?—T.J.R.

True, man and woman aren't geared for total compatibility—but it's fun adjusting I'm the reactionary type who votes for family life, thank you.—H.

Kittens and Prescott in a Draw

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

Although fighting for four full quarters last night at Hammons Stadium, the Hope Bobkittens went to the dressing room with a 0-0 tie against the Prescott Curley Cubs in the first game of the junior high season.

While the Kittens defense held up in good fashion almost all night the offense couldn't seem to really get things kicking right, sputtering quite a bit after getting drives started.

Receiving the kickoff, Hope could only get seven yards in three plays and a Kittens punt on fourth down gave Prescott a first down at their own 38 yard line.

With both teams trading the ball on fumbles, Prescott had the ball moving into the second quarter.

Three plays netted eight yards and on fourth down a five yard loss gave Hope the ball with 5:42 left in the first half. Running off three plays the Kittens could only go backwards, and a punt by Mike Hobson set the Curley Cubs back to their own 40 yard line.

Moving the ball upfield for six yards in three plays, Prescott gave the ball back on a fourth down fumble at their own 34 yard line.

On first down, halfback Larry Johnson picked up nine yards and a play later carried the ball seven more for an important first down at the Cub 20. However four plays later the first half ended with Hope still 20 yards from paydirt.

Moving into the third quarter, Prescott took the kick and marched to the Hope three yard line in eleven plays before meeting a tough Bobkitten forward wall on fourth down.

With Hope taking possession the Kittens plowed their way out of danger to the Prescott 43 yard line on the running of Johnson, Jud Martindale, and Jimmy Howard. Boggling down at that point, a punt attempt was blocked, and after several trades of the ball, Hope again had possession, only this time in the shadows of their own goal posts at the five with 2:34 left in the game.

Getting nowhere, a 27 yard punt on fourth down gave Prescott good position of the Hope 37 with only 53 seconds left.

Four plays lost eight yards for Prescott, and with Hope getting possession with only 21 seconds left, the last play of the game saw quarterback James Robinson hit Howard with a 23 yard pass play to Curley Cub 32.

Hope's next game will be in Hammons Stadium against Ashdown, next Thursday night at 7:30 p.m.

Razorbacks Leaving for Little Rock

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Razorbacks were to leave Fayetteville late this afternoon and fly to Little Rock to complete final preparations for Saturday's opening game with California.

The Porkers held their final workout Thursday. Coach Frank Broyles said he thought the Razorbacks were ready for the season opener.

"They seem to know what to do," said Broyles. "I think we'll be ready by Saturday."

Following the 50-minute practice session Thursday, Broyles said the team would spend a lot of time thinking about California before Saturday's game.

"We'll certainly lose a little weight between now and then," he said.

Coach Knows of California Defense

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles knows what California's defense can do.

He'll find out about the Razorbacks' defense when seventh-ranked Arkansas meets California Saturday night at Little Rock in a nonconference football opener for both teams.

"California's defense is big and strong and sound," Broyles said. "Their defense just physically manhandled the people they played last November."

Much of the defense that keyed the Bears' upsets of Southern Cal and Stanford last year returns. Two all-conference choices, defensive tackle Sherman White, and defensive halfback Ray Youngblood, are among the seven defensive starters who are back.

One Arkansas assistant says that with athletes like Youngblood, Joe Acker and Clarence Duren in the secondary, the Bears' can go all out in attempting to pressure the offense with the front seven.

On the other hand, cornerback David Hogue will be the only Arkansas defender who lines up Saturday night where he did last fall.

"There's been a some conjecture about this game as any game I can remember," said Broyles, who is entering his 14th year as head coach at Arkansas. "We have so many young players who haven't played who are good athletes. We're hoping they can perform in game situations."

The Razorbacks have played a read-and-react type of defense the past few years. They hope to be more reckless this year.

"We played a lot of straight defenses last year, reading defenses," Broyles said. "We need to get after them, read on the move."

"It's a new scheme with new people," he said. "We're keeping our fingers crossed. We know we've made a lot of improvement over our play in the spring, but it's still a race to see whether we can play naturally and recklessly or whether we're thinking out there, and making mistakes."

Offensively, Arkansas appears to have the edge.

The Razorbacks' tackles and guards are big and experienced. Big things are expected of junior quarterback Joe Ferguson, but he has yet to start a college varsity game. Tailback John Richardson, who started the last few games of 1970, and speedy Dicky Morton are home-run threats. Ferguson, who passed for more than 700 yards last year while backing up Bill Montgomery, will be throwing to Jim Hodge, a starter as a sophomore, and Mike Reppond.

Tim Todd, who averaged more than five yards a carry in Pacific-8 competition, and Steve Kennitzer, who played little last year, will probably be the Bears' running backs. Isaac Curtis, a 9.3 sprinter, will return kicks and also see action in the backfield.

Reed Chastang, a junior with four minutes experience, will be the quarterback. He has an outstanding group of receivers in Steve Sweeney, Geoff De Lapp and Lonnie Crittenden. A sellout crowd of more than 53,600 is expected for the 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

Tonight's game between the Hope Bobcats and the Prescott Curley Wolves continues a long and fierce battle between the two teams to see who can nag who for another year about winning.

Both teams were at the same point last year at this time with Hope sitting on an 0-1 record and Prescott sporting a 1-0 record. But it surely doesn't say the same thing is going to happen because the scores and statistics are usually not the same—and that's just naming a couple of things.

Prescott's starting units will include 12 seniors, six juniors, and four sophomores while Hope's units will have 16 seniors, six juniors, and no sophomores starting. With that including the two-way starters the experience should be about even.

While Prescott's line averages 5-10 in height and 161 pounds in weight for the offensive line, Hope is a little larger at 180 pounds per man while standing at about 6-1. Defensively, Hope has the big edge in weight with 193 pounds to Prescott's 167 per lineman for the front lines.

Favored by most people as a touchdown better over Prescott, the Cats had better be on their toes. This year the Curley Wolves will be out for some revenge of their own, and they have a pretty good team with which to try. Although I give the Bobcats an edge it could also be a toss-up for the victory. Tonight we'll find out.

Gametime is 8:00 p.m. and for those who can't make it to the game, Mike Huckabee will give the play-by-play on KXAR.

Plunkett to Direct the Patriots

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Even if you're pro football's No. 1 draft pick and a Heisman Trophy winner, the transition from college to the pro grid ranks can be rugged. Ask New England's Jim Plunkett.

The much-heralded rookie, still bruised from the battering he received from the Atlanta Falcons last weekend when he completed 17 of 29 passes for 187 yards, will direct the Patriots against the injury-riddled New York Jets in one of three final National Football League exhibition games slated for tonight.

Other games put the Green Bay Packers against the Buffalo Bills and the Cleveland Browns against the St. Louis Cardinals.

In Thursday's only game Los Angeles edged San Francisco 23-20.

"Man, he gets hit 10 times a game, mean annihilated, but he just gets up again and keeps going," said Patriots' trainer Billy Bates about the former Stanford University standout.

In addition to a resiliency to the hard knocks of the pros, Plunkett is learning his lessons well.

"I'm surprised how fast he learns," praised head Coach Bill Mazur. "He'll probably start our opener against the Raiders, too."

Al Woodall, on the shelf for one week with a wrist injury, will engineer the Jet offense. With Joe Namath still recuperating from knee surgery and powerful fullback Matt Snell out with a bruised knee, the effectiveness of the New York attack has been hampered.

Both teams are 1-4 in pre-season play and the Jets have the past in their favor—the Patriots have not registered a victory over them since 1965.

If the Buffalo Bills can fatten their 3-2 exhibition record at the expense of the Colts, it will be the largest number of pre-season games they have won in 11 years.

Dennis Shaw, who fired two touchdown passes to lead the Bills to a 31-17 triumph over Detroit last weekend, will start.

With veteran Bart Starr still out of the picture following surgery, Packers Coach Dan Devine will start 40-year-old Zeke Bratkowski.

The Bills will be missing their ace wide receiver, J.D. Hill, who sustained spinal and knee injuries against the Lions.

The Browns are fresh from their first triumph—a 30-7 romp over the New York Giants. Quarterback Bill Nelson, filling in for No. 1 signal-caller Mike Phipps who has been erratic during pre-season action, connected on nine of 14 tosses for 193 yards.

The Cardinals, with a 1-2-1 slate, boast a rigid defense that has been sacked for only 73 points. Jim Hart is expected to start at quarterback with Pete Beathard in reserve.

Saturday's games have Atlanta at San Diego, Cincinnati at Washington, Kansas City at Dallas, Miami at Minnesota and Baltimore and Oakland at Jacksonville, Fla.

The exhibition season concludes Sunday with Denver at Chicago, Detroit at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh at the New York Giants and Houston at New Orleans.

Actually Its Nicklaus and Lee Trevino

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Golf Writer
AKRON, Ohio (AP) — It's supposed to be a four-man confrontation, this World Series of Golf, but actually it's Jack Nicklaus vs. Lee Trevino with a supporting cast of two.

Nicklaus and Trevino, easily the two dominant figures in professional golf today, go for 36 holes for a $50,000 prize starting Saturday with Charles Coody and Bruce Crampton also in the running.

The course for this 10th World Series of Golf is the 7,180 yard Firestone Country Club course, a par 70 layout that most of the touring pros consider one of the half-dozen toughest in the country.

There are only two par fives on it, one of them the 625 yard 16th, known as The Monster. Seven of the par fours go 450 yards or more.

The line-up calls for the four competitors to be made up of the winners of the four major championships, the U.S. and British Opens, the Masters and the PGA.

The 31-year-old Nicklaus won the PGA. Coody, a handsome, rangy Texan, took the Masters. Trevino won the American National championship, and the British Open, two of them. The next alternate was supposed to be the Canadian Open champion.

But Trevino won that one, too.

So they went to the second alternate, the Western Open finalist, Crampton.

He has credentials, too. The veteran from Australia has won 10 titles on the American tour, is one of the top eight all-time leading money winners in the game.

Coody also won his way in impressively, shutting off the memory of a collapse when he held off Nicklaus and young John Miller in the Masters.

But attention will be centered on Trevino-Nicklaus, the same combo that hooked up in a playoff for the U.S. Open title. Trevino won by three strokes, then made that a springboard for his sweep of the Canadian and British titles. He's won two other championships and $197,000 this season.

Nicklaus has won four times this year and ranks as the leading money winner with more than $207,000. And he plays this course like he owns it. In 56 competitive rounds at Firestone, he's won more than $288,000, an average of more than $5,000 every time he tees it up.

The final five holes will be telecast nationally each day by NBC-TV.

Vikings Are High on Their Offense

By PAT THOMPSON

Associated Press Sports Writer
MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers had just upset the Minnesota Vikings 17-14 in a National Football League playoff game last December.

In the dazed Viking dressing room, wide receiver Gene Washington mumbled that the offense was not able to click on the third downs and had let down the defense that had such a brilliant regular season.

"We won together," said defensive end Jim Marshall.

"Now, we lost together."

The Vikings are back together again for 1971, stronger than ever before, and with an offense that threatens to carry more than its share.

Although Coach Bud Grant prefers to keep the offense simple to minimize mistakes, the Vikings have the firepower to change tactics.

Trades have brought in 10-year veteran Norm Snead to join Gary Cuozzo and Bob Lee at quarterback and seven-year pro Al Denson to catch passes with Washington, Bob Grim and John Henderson.

Veterans will start in every position—from the prize defense led by the tempestuous front four of ends Marshall and Carl Eller, tackles Alan Page and Gary Larsen to record-setting kicker Fred Cox, who scored in all 112 NFL games in which he has played.

Grant is asking his team, which was 3-3 in his first season in 1967 then rose to 8-6 and to consecutive 12-2 seasons, to strive for further refinement.

"You say, what areas are we going to improve?" Grant said in an interview. "There was a time we talked about improving our downfield tackling, our passing game, improving our advancing the ball after the march."

"How we could eliminate a number of penalties, how we could make fewer mistakes. There were so many areas we thought we could play better."

"Individually, we thought they could play better. We analyzed their play, talked to them and tried to convince them where we were falling down, breaking down—what were their weak points—tried to improve them, try to sell them on becoming a better team by everybody playing together."

The Vikings have great depth at almost every position. Starting guard Jim Vellone is out for at least this season with Hodgkin's disease. But Ed White, groomed in a reserve role for two years, is ready to take over.

Other stalwarts of the line are tight end John Beasley, tackles Grady Alderman and Ron Vary, guard Milt Sunde and center Mick Tingelhoff.

Grant can choose from six backs for his starters—Clint Jones and Dave Osborn, Jim Lindsey and Bill Brown, rookie Leo Hayden and Oscar Reed.

Rounding out the defense are linebackers Wally Hilgenberg, Roy Winston and Lonnie Warwick, cornerbacks Charlie West and Ed Sharrockman and safeties Karl Kassulke and Paul Krause.

Punting might be a question. Lee, who handled the duty in

Hanging Out the Wash in Pro Football

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out the pro football wash:

Weather, and not just rain and snow, have long plagued or benefited football teams. A swirling storm can all but wreck an aerial-oriented team and be of inestimable value to one with a crunching ground attack.

Except for Houston's Astro-dome, all teams are still at the mercy of the weatherman. But now a university professor has come up with an idea which could neutralize one of weather's whims without the massive expense of enclosing a stadium.

Guf Bertels of the University of Manitoba's mechanical engineering department says experiments have shown it is possible to all but eliminate the unpredictable winds that can wreak havoc on passes, punts, kickoffs and the like.

Wind deflectors slanting inward from the top of stadium can tame a 50-mile-an-hour gale to a gentle breeze of five, he says.

Wind-tunnel experiments using a scale model of a stadium have shown the idea is workable, says Bertels, and the next step is to refine the principle, tailoring the length and angle of the deflectors to the park.

Based on the size and durability, they would cost $20,000 to $40,000 compared to the millions needed to construct a dome.

Stateside, meanwhile, National Football League officials have had some fans wondering why so many "penalties" are being called but no yardage being assessed.

It's because those "flags" being dropped aren't flags at all.

They're sandbags, three-by-six-inch white sacks thrown to the turf when the ball changes hands.

The idea is to mark the spot where a team takes possession so that, in the event each team commits a foul on the play, off-setting each other, the official would know exactly where the team gaining possession would begin its offensive series.

By the way, the NFL chose sand when it found that beans expanded when wet, and buck-shot wouldn't pass the weapons detectors being used by the airlines.

You Can't Tell the Home Team Without a Spectrum Department:

Most NFL teams will still be wearing their colors at home, but not necessarily the ones they wore last season.

The Atlanta Falcons, for example, are switching from black to red. And New Orleans, which wore black last year, and Philadelphia, which wore green, will each be adorned in white.

Dallas, Los Angeles, Cincinnati, Denver, Cleveland and San Diego will also wear white while the rest of the clubs will remain their colorful selves at home.

Then there's St. Louis, which will wear its usual red except for its games against Dallas and Philadelphia, when the Cards will wear the white—but that's another story.

The Vikings have great depth at almost every position. Starting guard Jim Vellone is out for at least this season with Hodgkin's disease. But Ed White, groomed in a reserve role for two years, is ready to take over.

Other stalwarts of the line are tight end John Beasley, tackles Grady Alderman and Ron Vary, guard Milt Sunde and center Mick Tingelhoff.

Grant can choose from six backs for his starters—Clint Jones and Dave Osborn, Jim Lindsey and Bill Brown, rookie Leo Hayden and Oscar Reed.

Rounding out the defense are linebackers Wally Hilgenberg, Roy Winston and Lonnie Warwick, cornerbacks Charlie West and Ed Sharrockman and safeties Karl Kassulke and Paul Krause.

Punting might be a question. Lee, who handled the duty in 1969, is back at his old job.

There is an air of confidence on the team.

"We agree with the experts who are picking us to win the championship," said Alderman, the last of the original Vikings selected in the 1961 draft expansion pool. "We feel we have the best team and we should win it. We're as close as we've ever been as a team."

MORE MURDERS

HOUSTON (AP) - In this city, you stand almost twice as much chance of dying at the hands of a murderer than from a traffic fatality.

Through July, 1971 records at the Police Department show 183 persons were murdered while 101 died from traffic fatalities.

DROP IN WELFARE

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) - The number of Arabs receiving welfare in the Israeli-occupied Gaza Strip and the Sinai Peninsula has dropped from 70,000 to 30,000 since the 1967 Mideast war.

CHOPPERS CHECKED OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) - The city council responding to complaints of noise pollution, has revoked the landing permit for a popular sight-seeing helicopter.

Residents under the choppers' flight path said the noise from flights as many as 10 per day constituted a nuisance.

Bell TV Specials Buck Trend

By JOYCE GABRIEL

NEW YORK--(NEA)--In its first season last year, The Bell System Family Theatre presented entertainment such as "Jane Eyre," with George C. Scott and Susanah York, "George M," with Joel Grey, The Bing Crosby Christmas Special and the Ringling Bros. circus.

The shows achieved that perfect mix in television critical acclaim and good ratings. "Jane Eyre," in fact, won all three TV Scout awards last year for best made-for-movie TV. And the popularity was so great it is being encored on Sept. 12th.

This season, the Bell specials planned include "Dames at Sea," with Ann-Margret, Ann Miller and Dick Shawn; another Bing Crosby Christmas Special; another Ringling Bros. Circus show and a program of Gershwin music, performed by Jack Lemmon, Peter Nero, Ethel Merman, Leslie Uggams and others.

Most companies have stopped sponsoring their own shows. U.S. Steel Hour, Alcoa Presents, GE Theater have all been gone for years. Bell's own Telephone Hour went off the air three years ago. Why, then, does the Bell System fully sponsor its Family Theatre presentations?

Edward M. Block, assistant vice president in charge of the Bell programs, gives a few reasons.

"Doing our own specials fits in with our advertising campaign," said Block. "It is a 'grind-away' approach. We're not trying to sell X barrels of beer over Labor Day weekend. We're trying to sell understanding of what the Bell System is trying to do with the public franchise we have."

"Also, since our commercials are not hard-sell, we project our image through quality shows. The shows themselves are part of the campaign."

Planning its own shows insures Bell that what it's presenting has "corporate taste"—a nebulous term.

One of the insoluble problems for those who use forcing single jump raises is how to handle the jump from one to three in a minor suit. If the user is a writer he says the raise is forcing but is careful to avoid giving any example or specifying whether the bid is a one-round force or a game force.

It is so much easier to use the single jump as a strong invitation and let the opener decide whether to go on.

South opens one club in line with the recognized principle that with 4-3-3-3 distribution you should open

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

"Poor Richard's Almanac" was published by Benjamin Franklin in 1732. The World Almanac notes that Franklin's almanac was, for about 25 years, the most popular book in the American colonies, excepting the Bible. Using the pseudonym Richard Saunders, he wrote witty sayings which he borrowed from English and other literature and transformed into rigorous prose.

LSD OFFENSES RISE LONDON (AP) - A huge increase in the number of people convicted of offenses involving the hallucinatory drug LSD was reported in Britain in 1970 with 744 convictions, compared with 161 in 1969.

HARVEY EVANS and Ann-Margret star in "Dames at Sea," a Bell System Family Theatre Special that will be shown Nov. 15 on NBC.

meaning "programming with artistic merit that is entertaining and will attract an adult audience."

Bell selects its shows with its advertising campaign in mind.

"We start planning the shows by thinking about what we're trying to say in our ads and whom we're speaking to," said Block. "We try for all adult Americans, but we realize we won't reach everyone with every show."

"That's why we look for variety, so that in the course of the season we'll have something to appeal to every taste."

Block, his boss and his assistant make the decisions on programming from the sponsor end. The network (NBC televises the monthly specials) and advertising agency also get a vote in what programs are aired.

Jules Green, who is with Bell's advertising agency (N. W. Ayer) and has been in show business all his life—he was Steve Allen's partner and creator of the Tonight Show—"keeps us from doing anything dumb," according to Block.

Performers can attract the right audience.

"Let me give you an example," said Block. "If we had a rock group starring on one of our shows, we'd have all the young audience, but one club rather than one spade. North gives a limit jump raise to three clubs.

With 15 high-card points South feels justified in trying three no-trump. He knows that no guarantee goes with that contract but if you wait for guarantees you won't do well in bridge.

South wins the diamond lead in his own hand and has no trouble collecting nine tricks. In fact he will probably come up with 10.

If North and South are using forcing raises, North has no way to respond to the club opening. Two clubs is an underbid—a forcing three clubs an overbid.

If he takes the high road and does bid three clubs he gets to the right spot. If he just bids two clubs a game has been thrown out the window.

we'd turn off the older group. If we have a show starring Bing Crosby or Robert Goulet, we'll get the older group, but not the young."

According to Block, dramatic productions appeal to both young and old, and have a larger potential audience.

Documentaries don't draw as well as entertainment shows, which is why Bell has veered away from them. Block says they can be controversial, which means some people may be offended, which means the potential viewing audience is less.

"A show has a lot to do with how the commercials come across," said Block. "If people are being entertained, are enjoying themselves, they're more receptive to commercials. I've seen the same ad run on two different shows get opposite reactions—that's how much a program can influence the success of a commercial."

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Do Not Discount Value of Faith

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—When I left the hospital, the doctor prescribed nitroglycerin tablets. Chest pains have been very rare, just occasional stabs at times that go away as they come. Shoulders and arm feel limp at times, as if I were punched with a boxing glove. I put a tablet under my tongue and that apparently helps out or is it my imagination?

Dear Reader—Who knows? This is one of our big problems in evaluating the effects of various medicines, or even surgical procedures.

A doctor may be perfectly sure that the medicine he is giving his patient is doing a world of good when in fact it is the power of suggestion that is doing the trick.

This is why research studies are often designed so that some patients get sugar pills and others get a drug that is being tested. Even the doctor doesn't know which medicine the pharmacy gives the patient. Then, when the patient's response is evaluated and matched with which medicine he was actually getting, you can tell if it is all just in the mind or truly the effect of the medicine.

Don't discount the value of the benefit though that comes from the mind or from faith. Even the right medicine doesn't do as much for the patient who has no faith in it and is determined not to get well.

What you are describing is Nitroglycerin tablets do "wear out" with age and you should be sure that you always have fresh ones available.

Another point for the many people who take nitroglycerin tablets under the tongue—if you have not had any need for tablets for several months and then start having chest pain, it is better not to take the tablet. Call your doctor instead. The onset of chest pain when you have been free of it for months can mean the start of a heart attack. Nitroglycerin tablets should not be taken if there is any possibility the pain is a heart attack or myocardial infarction. Under these conditions, the nitroglycerin tablet can cause shock and even death. Like many medicines, nitroglycerin is a wonderful aid to man but only when it is used in the right amounts in the right circumstances.

GENDER OF GOD
NEW YORK (AP) "What in thunder is gained by reversing 'God is a He' to 'God is a She' except irritating people?" said Dr. Margaret Mead, an Episcopalian and anthropologist, at a meeting on improving women's role in the church. "It gets us nowhere."

CONTRAST couldn't be greater in this chance encounter on Rome street—the very latest in hot pants and a religious habit little changed since medieval times.

PERSONAL FINANCE

Many potential home buyers have been sitting on their pocketbooks, cowed by high real estate prices and record mortgage rates. Still, says Lewis S. Eaton, president of the United States Savings and Loan League, "a mortgaged home rates among the 'best buys' in 1971's inflationary economy."

Mortgage rates may look high to those who remember 4 and 5 per cent loans. But, Eaton points out, "the money you borrow for a home mortgage today is about the least expensive you can get. It's a lower interest rate than paid by America's largest corporations, borrowing in the bond market."

So long as inflation continues—and it may well be with us long-term, despite the 90-day wage-price freeze—the home owner is paying off his loan with increasingly cheap dollars, Eaton observes. All this, he says, makes the modern, long-term home mortgage loan "a relatively low-risk hedge against inflation."

True enough, so far as it goes. The home owner's hedge against inflation, however, is far from the protection it's usually credited with being. The home owner tells himself that no longer can the landlord raise his rent every year or two. No, the landlord can't, but . . .

Tax bills go up. The cost of heating the house, or air conditioning it, is higher than last year. It costs the home owner more to spread the roof repaired, or water the lawn. The cost of shelter has been rising much more rapidly for the home owner, in fact, than for the renter.

Translating increases in the Consumer Price Index into dollars: The family that was paying $175 a month rent at the end of 1965 was, by this summer, paying $206.15. The family that started with home-ownership costs of $175 a month saw its expenses rise to $245.02. The increase was 17.8 per cent for the renter, 40 per cent for the home owner.

A hopeful sign, possibly, is the reversal that's shown in the latest 12-month figures. Rents were up 4.8 per cent, while home-ownership costs increased only 3.2 per cent. But the inexorable nature of inflation is that it hits everyone. Some harder than others, but very few can escape it or "hedge" it to any great extent. The home owner, for example, is inclined to take comfort from the fact that the value of his "investment" has increased.

That your house has a higher market value today than it did five years ago isn't, in fact, much help in your battle against inflation. What are you going to do—sell the house, to get your "profit" out? And if you do, how are you going to hang onto your profit—live in a tent?

The single-family dwelling, unfortunately, is not an "investment" in the sense of capital appreciation—income produced, to maintain your purchasing power in the face of a rising cost of living. The real reason for buying a house is that it offers you the comforts and conveniences and way of life that you want. And if that's your desire, there's no point in trying to wait out 1971's high prices.

God has given each of us certain abilities, certain talents. Perhaps some have received more than others, but no one has been left out. What we do with these is up to us. We can hide them or we can seek to develop them.

Considering the parable of the talents found in Matthew 25:14-30, we discover that the man who hides his abilities often ends up losing them. But the man who seeks to improve himself is often rewarded with all the glories that come with hard work.

What better way to improve the potentials that we have than through education! Learning increases our natural abilities, and the rewards are obvious. What will you do with the abilities that God has given you? Will you hide them or will you seek to expand them?
To Hide or Seek? Which will you do?

So They May See - St. Mark 4:1-15 - So They May Hear

AND HE BEGAN AGAIN to teach by the sea side: and there was gathered unto him a great multitude, so that he entered into a ship, and sat in the sea; and the whole multitude was by the sea on the land.

2. And he taught them many things by parables, and said unto them in his doctrine,

3. Hearken; Behold, there went out a sower to sow:

4. And it came to pass, as he sowed, some fell by the way side, and the fowls of the air came and devoured it up.

5. And some fell on stony ground, where it had not much earth; and immediately it sprang up, because it had no depth of earth;

6. But when the sun was up, it was scorched; and because it had no root, it withered away.

7. And some fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up, and choked it, and it yielded no fruit.

8. And other fell on good ground, and did yield fruit that sprang up and increased; and brought forth, some thirty, and some sixty, and some an hundred.

AND HE SAID UNTO THEM, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

10. And when he was alone, they that were about him with the twelve asked of him the parable.

11. And he said unto them, Unto you it is given to know the mystery of the kingdom of God; but unto them that are without, all these things are done in parables:

12. That seeing they may see, and not perceive; and hearing they may hear, and not understand; lest at any time they should be converted, and their sins should be forgiven them.

13. And he said unto them, Know ye not this parable? and how then will ye know all parables?

14. The sower soweth the word.

15. And these are they by the way side, where the word is sown; but when they have heard, Satan cometh immediately, and taketh away the word that was sown in their hearts.

New SS Act Arkansas Delegate Will Draft About 20,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — Between 20,000 and 25,000 young men are likely to be drafted during the rest of the year once Congress approves the new selective service act, say Pentagon officials.

This would put the total number drafted in 1971 at fewer than 120,000, lowest since 1964 when 104,500 men were called to duty.

Authority to draft men into the Army ran out June 30 with expiration of the old selective service act and legislation to extend the draft two years has been tied up in Congress over a Vietnam troop-withdrawal amendment.

A compromise House-approved bill is scheduled to come before the Senate Monday, but congressional sources say it may not pass until sometime in October.

Before the draft was suspended in June, 88,000 men were called up during the first six months of the year. Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said in April the Army would need about 10,000 draftees a month to meet its manpower needs for the remainder of 1971.

But Pentagon sources say there are no plans to make up lost ground this year with high draft calls in November and December once induction authority is reinstituted.

They say, however, monthly draft calls may be slightly higher than anticipated during the first few months of 1972.

An increase in enlistments helped ease the shortage resulting from draft suspension and kept training posts busy this summer.

"A study of the lottery numbers of the new enlistees show they're still behaving as if the draft was going to be renewed and figure once it starts again they'll get called anyway," said one Pentagon manpower specialist. "But if there's much more delay the feeling around here is there's going to be a real change in behavior and we'll start to get a real falling off (of enlistees)."

Officials say those men with lottery numbers higher than 140 are not expected to be drafted. Army officials said the lack of draftees would not significantly affect personal strength until December.

Of the 20,000 to 25,000 men who probably will be called this year once the draft resumes, most are likely to be taken in November.

NIXON CALLS (From Page One)

Meany, severest critic of Nixon's new economic policies as a "bonanza" to big business at the expense of the nation's workers.

Nixon told Congress Thursday the 90-day freeze will end as scheduled Nov. 13.

"But I assure the Congress and the American people that when this first temporary and necessarily drastic action is over, we shall take all the steps needed to see that America is not against afflicted by the virus of runaway inflation," Nixon said.

Business leaders have been invited to see Nixon Monday, agriculture leaders Tuesday and congressional leaders Sept. 17, the White House said.

Woodcock said Hodgson told him the labor leaders will be consulted continuously as Nixon shapes his post-freeze policy.

Woodcock said labor leaders still oppose Nixon's proposed business investment tax credit as a "give-away" to major corporations, and will fight it in Congress.

Nixon, urging Congress to enact the measure, said it would encourage business to invest in new plant equipment to create more jobs. But Woodcock argued the corporations would use it to buy equipment displacing workers, and thereby worsen the unemployment rate which stands near a nine-year high.

Woodcock said he would proposed to Nixon a permanent wage-price review board with power to subpoena company and union leaders for questioning about any price or wage hikes considered excessive, but with no power to block such hikes except through focusing "the power of public opinion" of them.

Arkansas Delegate

JOYCE MEGGERSON

Miss Joyce Meggerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Meggerson of Fulton, Arkansas, has been chosen by Governor Dale Bumpers as one of the representatives from Arkansas to participate in a Training Program in Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Planning. The meeting will be held in Denver, Colorado September 9-13, 1971.

This training program is being sponsored by the Youth Development and Delinquency Prevention Administration, an agency with the Department of Health Adolescent Medicine, Childrens Hospital of Los Angeles to develop and implement this program.

Miss Meggerson has also been named a member of the State Juvenile Delinquency Planning Council. She is an employee of the Governor's office and a 1970 graduate of Hendrix College.

Bear Bryant Is Near the Elite Group

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN Associated Press Sports Writer

One more coaching victory will put Paul William "Bear" Bryant into one of football's most elite groups ... and it could come tonight.

With 199 triumphs in 26 years as a head coach at Maryland, Kentucky, Texas A&M and Alabama, Bryant is on the threshold of becoming the sixth coach in the history of college football to win 200 games.

It won't be easy because Alabama visits Southern California, which is ranked fifth in The Associated Press pre-season poll. Coach John McKay of the Trojans insists, however, that he doesn't expect another rout like last year's when Southern Cal romped 42-21.

"Alabama is 200 per cent better than it was a year ago," says McKay. "They are a lot bigger, especially on defense."

The feeling is mutual. "This year's Southern Cal team is bigger and better than last year's," says John David Crow, a member of Bryant's staff, "and I think every Alabama follower knows that they were great in every way in 1970."

USC's 6-4-1 record was disappointing, but the Trojans were the only team to tie national champion Nebraska and the only one to beat second-ranked Notre Dame.

The only other Friday night game pairs Brigham Young and North Texas State in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. The game had to be switched from Texas Stadium in nearby Irving when the new field ran into construction delays.

Saturday's only meeting of Top Twenty teams is a key Big Ten game between fourth-ranked Michigan and No. 20 Northwestern at Evanston, Ill. Other Big Ten openers find Iowa at defending champion Ohio State, Illinois at Michigan State and Indiana at Minnesota. Ohio State is ranked 11th nationally.

Top-ranked Notre Dame opens next week but runner-up Nebraska, the defending national champion, entertain explosive Oregon and an upset isn't out of the question.

Elsewhere, eighth-ranked Arkansas repeats California under the lights at Little Rock. Colorado visits No. 9 Louisiana State for a night game. Pitt is at No. 15 UCLA for an after-dark meeting. Georgia Tech, ranked 17th, plays at South Carolina at night while No. 18 Georgia hosts Oregon State and No. 19 Stanford is at Missouri. Other key games find Boston College at West Virginia, Duke vs. Florida at Tampa (night), Texas Tech at Tulane (night), Washington State at Kansas, Utah State at Kansas State, Mississippi State at Oklahoma State and Houston at Rice (night).

Defending champion William & Mary visits The Citadel for a Southern Conference night opener while West Texas State begins Missouri Valley Conference play under the lights at Memphis State.

Toledo puts the nation's longest winning streak—23 games—on the line at East Carolina after dark with a new coach at the helm. Jack Murphy moved over from Heidelberg replacing Frank Lauterbur.

AM&N Defeats State by a Field Goal

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Larry Bankston kicked two field goals in the fourth quarter to lead Arkansas AM&N to a 13-10 AIC football victory over State College of Arkansas here Thursday night.

Bankston kicked a 30-yard field goal with 11:02 remaining in the final period to tie the score at 10-10. With five minutes left, Bankston booted a 29-yard field goal, capping a drive that began on the SCA 42-yard line.

SCA's first score came on a 27-yard field goal by Bob Moyers with 6:30 left in the first period. The Bears scored with 11 seconds remaining in the first half when linebacker Rodger Pavan scooped up a fumble on the AM&N 20 yard line and ran in for a touchdown. Moyers booted the extra point.

AM&N's first score came on a 20-yard pass from quarterback Bruce Swinton to Wallace Francis. Bankston kicked the extra point with 8:22 left in the third period to make the score 10-7.

and a prisoner were injured.

With Oswald's permission, the rioters sought an injunction early today from Judge John T. Curtin of U.S. District Court in Buffalo, 40 miles to the west, prohibiting prison officials from taking "any physical reprisals" against them. But Curtin was at a conference in Manchester, Vt., and the inmates' lawyer flew there from Batavia to seek the document.

An injunction would not prevent criminal charges, a spokesman for Oswald said.

The hostages, kept at a distance in the portion of the red brick and gray stone prison that the rebels controlled, apparently "are in reasonably good shape," a doctor who saw them reported.

Before Oswald's meeting with rebel leaders, state police with no-holds-barred orders chased the rioting prisoners from three of four cellblocks they had initially seized.

Battling guards armed only with clubs, the convicts quickly gained control of all four cellblocks in their initial outburst. They smashed windows and furniture and set fire to the prison school, chapel and carpentry shop.

Several guards injured in the melee were stripped and set free clad only in blankets.

State officials said the hostages were 31 guards and four shop foremen trapped by the initial surge of the prisoners, who armed themselves with pipes, baseball bats, homemade knives and stored teargas guns.

As the force of heavily armed state troopers and sheriff's deputies assembled to deal with the rioters, State Police Capt. Henry F. Williams ordered his men to secure the cellblocks.

"If somebody on the other side gets killed, well, that's the way it's gotta be," Williams said. "You're to take no crap from anybody. Don't lose your ORLANDO, Fla. — (NEA) — At the junction of Interstate 4 and State Road 535, about 15 miles southeast of here, there is a building called the Walt Disney World Preview Center.

Even though it is unadorned, more than one million people have already found it, and viewed the model of the huge amusement park-and-resort complex which will open in October, and watched a brief movie explaining the park.

In the lobby, there is a souvenir stand which does a rushing business. It sells the usual run of T-shirts and playing cards and necklaces, plus Disney World bumper stickers (for 25 cents). The owner of nearby Cypress Gardens came by one day and went away depressed—he'd been giving bumper stickers away, but then nobody has the merchandising magic of the Disney organization.

A few miles down the road is the Disney World employment office. Personnel director James Passilla—one of 200 executives transplanted from Disneyland in California—says that in its first month of operation it processed 20,000 applications. This is somewhat below the anticipated figure, but Passilla says the quality of the average applicant has been better than expected, so they're happy.

In hiring—they have to have nearly 6,000 employees by opening day—they are giving preference to Florida residents. But, in some areas, they are having to go outside. Disney operations always stress that they "cast" their employees, and they're having trouble casting people to man the Polynesian-style hotel. There are very few South Pacific types in central Florida, so they are looking elsewhere for them.

On down the road is the site itself, where two new cities—Lake Buena Vista and Bay Lake—have been created, and where the park itself is under construction. More than 7,000 men are working a 10-hour day to have it finished by Oct. 1.

In one huge building, the Disney World transportation system is coming to life. On the ground floor, workers are transforming three locomotives bought in Yucatan, weapon and don't lose your buddy."

The troopers marched two-by-two into the 54-acre prison compound, but a direct confrontation between the convicts and troopers never materialized.

As the state police moved forward, the rioters retreated until they held only Cellblock D. During their retreat, eight guards were thrown from cellblock windows to the prison yard below.

The state police did not attempt to take Cellblock D in the hope of negotiations with the rioters.

In all, 12 guards who had been injured at the start of trouble and during the state police assault were treated for injuries at nearby hospitals. Nine were admitted, including William Quinn, 28, who doctors said suffered brain damage.

The riot here was the first major disturbance in the New York state prison system since six guards were injured in an uprising at the Auburn Correctional Facility last fall. Prior to that, there had not been a major disturbance in the state system for 40 years.

DISNEY WORLD'S SLEEK MONORAIL will whisk visitors through the heart of the complex—including still-building 14-story resort hotel, shown in artist's sketch.

Mexico, and dating from the 1920s into the sparkling engines which will pull trains around the park.

Upstairs, the monorails—sleek and new—are being assembled.

There is even a shipyard, where the various types of boats which will cruise the natural lake and man-made lagoons are being put together. Most of them were built in a St. Petersburg shipyard, then trucked here in pieces to be put together.

Other workmen are rushing a campground to completion. This will be able to handle 234 campers and trailers in a beautiful natural site. Nearby, men are carving a nature trail into the swamp; you can walk along and view monster cypress trees, estimated at up to 2,000 years old.

In another area, workers are putting the finishing touches on two par-72, 18-hole golf courses, one planted with magnolias, the other with palms. On one, next December, the $150,000 PGA-sponsored Walt Disney World Open will be played. Arnold Palmer is one of several top pros who have already said he'd be there—and he'd be bringing his family.

The acceptance of this largest of recreation areas has been immediate. More than 300 conventions, into 1978, have been booked. Cruise ships from New York have altered their routes, so they'll stop at nearby Port Canaveral and let their passengers see the park.

A new STOL-port is planned and two small airlines—Pioneer and Executive—will begin scheduled service to various cities. Eastern Air Lines, which flies into Orlando from the big Eastern cities, has applied to the CAB for reduced family fare packages.

All of this is only the first phase of Disney's plans for the site. In the future there will be more—several more hotels, more golf courses, more attractions at the park itself, and Walt Disney's dream, EPCOT, the Experimental Prototype Community of Tomorrow.

"Walt said," says Joseph Fowler, the head of construction, "that he needed 28,000 acres here to keep his creative people busy for the next 50 years."

The Making of an Actor

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—"Drive, He Said" is another of those small pictures, full of deep meaning and shallow story. It is chiefly notable as being Jack Nicholson's first directorial effort, and the first acting job of the star, William Tepper.

They worked together for many months on the film, but there's something Nicholson doesn't know about Tepper.

"I lied to him," Tepper says.

In the film, the young actor plays a basketball star. So, when he met Nicholson and read for him, he tried to impress him with his natural aptitude for playing that kind of role.

"I told him I was six-four," Tepper says, "and I'm really only six-three. And I told him I'd been a star player in high school, but I was just on the squad, never a star."

The truth, at this point, can't hurt. Tepper has the part and he does well with it. It's too late for Nicholson to fire him now.

Tepper was born in New York, but was 8 when his family came to Los Angeles. His father was in land development and looked down his checkbook at acting.

"Whenever I showed an interest in acting or the arts," Tepper says, "my father would say, 'Get your real estate license, sell real estate during the week, then you can dabble in the arts on weekends.' That used to infuriate me."

Infuriated or not, he went along with Daddy. He got his real estate license, a conservative haircut and a conservative grey suit and he was a real estate investment counselor.

Then one day, driving home from a big sale, he picked up a girl hitch-hiker—"a lovely thing," Tepper remembers, "with a South African accent." He wanted to date her.

"But she said she couldn't talk to me," he says. "She said she could tell all about me by looking at me, that I was a businessman with a wife and kids and probably an alcohol problem. I told her that wasn't the real me, but she just laughed."

That was the day he quit. He got rid of the suit, let his hair grow and enrolled in the film department at UCLA. An actor was born.

Everybody but Somebody

Jean-Paul Vignon is discouraged. He's a young, handsome and talented French singer—but have you noticed what the market is for French singers these days?

"French singers are out," says Vignon. "Becaoud does nothing here. Even Aznavour—he went to Las Vegas for a month and they canceled him after a week."

Vignon thinks the fact that American audiences look down their nose at French singers may have political overtones, dating from DeGaulle's unpopularity with the American people.

At any rate, Vignon came to Hollywood with one idea. Since there doesn't seem to be much future in being a French singer, he figured he'd like to try acting. So he took a booking at The Playboy Club, hoping to catch some producer's eye.

But nary a producer has shown up. He's played to packed houses, but not the kind of house he wanted. More discouragement.

"I will stay here until the end of the year, anyhow," he says. "I somehow will get myself an acting part in a movie or on TV."

And he faces another dilemma—should he try to lose his French accent? Doing so would help as an actor, but the accent is a big plus in his singing act.

C'est la vie.

British Envoy Released in Uruguay

By PABLO GIUSSANI Associated Press Writer

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — After eight months in captivity, British Ambassador Geoffrey Jackson was released Thursday night on the steps of a church by his guerrilla kidnapers. He went inside, received Communion and offered a prayer of thanks.

He had been held in a dark, underground "people's jail" for 245 days, the longest confinement in the recent spate of political kidnappings. But doctors said the 56-year-old diplomat was in good health, and after a physical examination he went to the British Embassy to rest.

The leftist Tupamaros guerrillas, who had seized Jackson on a Montevideo street Jan. 8, declared in pamphlets scattered at a leftist political rally Wednesday night that they had granted amnesty to the diplomat.

There was no further need, he said, to hold the ambassador, the pamphlets said, because the Tupamaros had already won their "fight for political prisoners," a reference to the mass jailbreak Monday of 106 Tupamaros.

In Washington, a Labor member of British Parliament, Judith Hart, said she has been told by President Salvador Allende of Chile on Sept. 1 that Jackson would be released shortly. But there was no immediate indication that the Marxist president played a role in the diplomat's release.

A priest at the Church of St. Francis of Assisi, in the Montevideo suburb of Nuevo Paris, told authorities Jackson knocked on the door at 7:55 p.m.

He was blindfolded, freshly shaven and wearing the "same light suit he had on when he was kidnaped," the Rev. Jose Maria said. "He looked very well. If I had met him in the street, I wouldn't have recognized him. He was fine, spiritually perfect and normal."

The priest said he asked Jackson if the authorities should be notified and the diplomat replied: "No, I have to wait here until they come for me from the embassy."

Police said embassy officials arrived 10 minutes later, after the British Embassy received an anonymous phone call giving the diplomat's whereabouts.

The Tupamaros still hold four hostages—three Uruguayans and one Argentine—who were seized this spring and summer. The "amnesty" pamphlet for Jackson made no mention of their fate.
